

Poetry by Deborah Ann Belka

POEM "What Seeds Are You Sowing" by Deborah Ann. CHRISTian Poetry

<https://poetrybydeborahann.wordpress.com/2013/06/13/what-seeds-are-you-sowing/>

(used Saturday morning)

Some scatter seeds of anxiety, and harvest nothing but fear some collect in their memory the reason for all their tears.

Some spread seeds of gloom, and collect grains of doubt some gather up their losses when there's a spiritual drought.
Some cast seeds of excess, and reap in what they sow some collect worldly pleasures thinking God will never know.

Some throw seeds of greed, and amass envy and pride some lose their hope and faith when their will, with God's collide.

Some scatter seeds of doubt,
and harvest nothing but fear but those who mock not God sow the seeds of repentant tears!

POEM "The Seeds You Sow" by Deborah Ann. CHRISTian Poetry

<https://poetrybydeborahann.wordpress.com/2018/04/16/the-seeds-you-sow/>

(used Monday Closing)

May the seeds you sow, grow and multiply may hope to all they daily supply.

May they be rich,
in truth and mercy watered with love to quench the thirsty.

May they take root,
and find nourishment
so they can be seeds also of encouragement.

May they grow in faith, to sin, no longer bound so they too can spread the Good News around.

May the seeds you sow,
lay not dormant or inactive but, multiply and grow . . . into seeds Jesus attractive!